

CLEAR street experiments (2020)

City Liveability by Redesign (CLEAR) focuses on street experiments as a transformative tool to create more sustainable cities. This project has explored ways to make streets places for people, rather than just traffic channels in the cities of Milan, Amsterdam, and Munich.

Description

The City Liveability by Redesign (CLEAR) is a EIT Urban Mobility project offering a free, open-access and worldwide street experiments collection.

References

Clear street experiments